New Pacific Railroad Bill

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9—The House judiciary committee held a meeting to-day and agreed to a bill which was subsequently introduced into the House. It provides for amending the Pacific Railroad act approved July 1st 1862 and amended July 2d 1864 so as to make and constitute the railroad in Nebraska authorized to be constructed by the Burlington and Missouri River Railroad Company and which is now completed and known as the Burlington and Missouri River Railroad in Nebraska a branch of the U. P. R. R. [illegible] the rights and privileges and subject to all the duties and requirements provided by said acts [illegible] said last mentioned act provided that no government bonds shall ever be issued to said B. & M. R. R. in Nebraska to aid in its construction, and provided further that this act shall in no sense affect the extent or conditions of the land grant made to said company by the act of July 20, 1864. And in order to secure to the government and public equal advantages and facilities as to rates and to prevent discriminations, it is provided that the U. P. R. R. Co. shall operate its line in connection with the said B. & M. R. R. in Nebraska, and for carrying freight and passengers from or to be delivered to said B. & M. R. R. in Nebraska the U. P. R. R. shall charge at the same rate per mile for the distance between Kearney Junction and Cheyenne that is charged by it for distances in carrying freight and passengers over its own line for the distance between Omaha and Cheyenne; and for carrying all such passengers and freight from Cheyenne to points west of that place on the U. P. R. R. and C. P. R. R. the charges shall be at such fair and reasonable rates to be based on a fair proportion of its charges upon its line as may be fixed by the Secretary of the Interior, who shall after due inquiry and investigation fix and establish such proportion and notify all the companies interested, and he is authorized to employ three competent experts to ascertain and report such facts as may be necessary to enable him to carry out the provisions of this act, and the compensation so fixed shall be paid by such company or companies interested as he may designate and in the proportion fixed by him. The proper Circuit Court of the United States shall have power to compel observance of the provisions of the act, and for which purpose said court shall have jurisdiction to hear, try and determine any suit in equity or action of mandamus instituted for that purpose.

The "Crooked Whisky" Examination.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Elmer Washburne, chief of the secret service, testified before the whisky committee this afternoon as to the part he took under instructions from Solicitor Wilson in the discovery of evidence of frauds in Chicago. The seizures having been made by the supervisors, none of the evidence was obtained by him.

The Postoffice Investigation.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The majority of the House committee charged with investigating the management of the postoffice department submitted their report yesterday. After naming the bad practices which had grown up under the straw bid system they stated there was nothing in the evidence which can excuse Gen Creswell from the charge of complicity with the conspirators and of gross incompetency and neglect. In speaking of the administration of Jewell the committee state he made efforts to reform abuses, but they were unable to excuse him from want of action in the cases of Kettle and Peterson, and for the release of guilty officials in the departments. The minority made their report, in which they dissent from the conclusions of the other members of the committee in respect to Creswell, and affirm they find nothing in the evidence to justify them.

An Arrogant ex-Confederate Rebuked.

The Times Washington special, reviewing the House proceedings, says of Hooker's speech: He sometimes told some of the Republicans to sit down rather offensively without retort until he ordered Conger to his seat, when that gentleman rather forcibly intimated that he did not like the gentleman's arrogance but would sit down when it pleased him. Taking Hooker's speech as a whole it was not calculated to aid the Democratic cause at the North.

Bluford Wilson's Testimony Pronounced False.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—Senator Logan before the whisky committee this afternoon pronounced as false all that Solicitor Wilson had said or intimated concerning him, and he branded as false all statements or insinuations connecting him with the whisky frauds, as he has no communication directly or indirectly with the ring and only knows of its doings from the newspapers and the results of trials.

Pacific Coast Items on River and Harbor Bill.

Pacific coast items in river and harbor bill as passed both houses to-day and sent to the President for approvement: Oakland harbor, to be applied to finishing training walls and dredging between them, $[illegible]; for improvement of the Joaquin river, $[illegible]; for the construction of a canal around the Cascades of the Columbia river, Oregon, $90,000, of which amount $10,000 may expended by the Secretary of War to secure the right of way, and lands may be condemned for this purpose under the provisions of the Oregon State law; for improvement of Lower Willamette and Columbia rivers from Portland to the sea, $20,000; for the Upper Willamette, $[illegible]; and for the Upper Columbia, including Snake river, $15,000. The bill as passed appropriates $100,000 for incidental repairs of harbors and for such surveys and examinations of rivers and harbors as in the judgment of the Secretary of War will subserve the general interest of commerce, and all special provisions for surveys were stricken out.

Luttrell and Wigginton, in consequence of the omission of any appropriations for their respective districts, endeavored to defeat the adoption of the conference committee report, and voted to-day against the passage of the bill. This opposition is based on this background in some cases and in others on the conviction that the whole measure was indefensible, but only obtained [illegible] votes however, and the bill, appropriating $500,000 less than the amount originally sanctioned by the House, passed by an overwhelming majority.

Sargent last night secured a vote of 32 against 14 on his motion to make the Hawaiian treaty bill the special order for to-morrow. A two third vote was required, and there being less than a quorum present Sargent said he could not press the matter further. Last night he gave notice that he would vex the ear of the Senate until he got it attended to.

Mitchell said he would join him in the efforts, and added it would be the cause of self stultification if the Senate adjourned without taking action. Arguing his motion, Sargent said before Congress adjourns the Senate ought by all means to take action either favorably or unfavorably upon the legislation pending which has passed the House in reference to the Hawaiian treaty. I doubt if there is a Senator upon the floor who will disagree with me upon this proposition. We certainly ought to act promptly upon it for the benefit of trade or relieve business from the embarrassment which the uncertain condition of this legislation has put upon it. It is highly probable that Sargent's efforts will prove successful and the bill be passed this week.

Whisky Fraud Investigation and Washburn's Testimony

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10—The examination of Elmer Washburn by the whisky fraud investigation committee was continued this afternoon. [illegible] Wilson and Bristow [illegible] Logan said when I heard of this [illegible] it greatly surprised him [illegible] every particular. [illegible]

CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate

WASHINGTON, [illegible]

[illegible]

Sargent said the Senate should take action on the House bill to carry the Hawaiian treaty into effect, and moved it be made special order for Saturday.

Merrimon—We expect to adjourn on Friday.

Sargent—We can adjourn before Monday any how.

After discussion Sargent's motion to make the bill special order for Friday was rejected.

Sargent gave notice he would press the matter upon the attention of the Senate at every opportunity.

House.

Cox, from the committee on public printing, reported back the bill appropriating $[illegible] for publishing history of surveys and expeditions by the United States during the present century; passed.

House then discussed political subjects, and was addressed by Hoar, who commented on Lamar's speech, which was in full accord with the uniform tone of the Democratic press North and South, and in full accord with the uniform order of speeches that prevailed among that gentleman's colleagues when questions relating to the position of the south had arisen. That speech was a bitter invective against a government under which that gentleman lived and of whose magnanimity that gentleman was a conspicuous instance. He hoped the people would read that speech and judge by it of the expediency of committing the government to the Democratic party. He (Hoar) took issue with Lamar's claim there was prevalent corruption in all the administration of public affairs. He believed the 16 years in which the Republican party had had power had been freer from corruption and maladministration than the 16 years which followed the inauguration of Washington. In proof of public corruption during the administration of Washington, John Adams and Jefferson, he recited the case of a general of the revolutionary war who while quartermaster general of the army was in partnership in a firm which had the supplying of army stores, and who corresponded with that firm secretly in cipher; the case of Washington's friend who while Secretary of State was detected in receiving moneys from France as a bribe to thwart the foreign policy of the administration of which he was a member; the case of another of Washington's cabinet officers, Hamilton, who being charged with corrupt relations with a person whom he had put in the Treasury Department, defended himself by acknowledging over his own signature his profligate relation to the wife of that person; and the case of another cabinet officer of Washington's who wrote a letter acknowledging an act of virtual dishonor unequaled by that of Belknap. The difference between the two [illegible] it was the diamond light in which the proofs of the present day burned on all public transactions.

Hooker replied to Hoar, and commented on his allusion to the corruption of the public service in early history as ghoul-like diggings into the grave of the past, and as ill-becoming from a party which in this age had culminated in those excellent qualities which distinguished that party. He proceeded to criticise and discuss the reconstruction measures, particularly as bearing on Mississippi. Every Northern State which has manumitted its slaves, from Massachusetts the first to New Jersey the last, had enacted more restrictive laws in regard to freedom than that statute of Mississippi with which Hoar found so much fault. The colored men are beginning to find out who are their friends, and they had helped roll up a Democratic majority of 30,000 in Alabama. There was no truer friend of the colored race or more honest than their old masters.

Small denied this, and said withdraw your Ku-klux and not one of them will vote the Democratic ticket.

Hooker—That's all nonsense, and the country knows it. [Laughter.] Do the gentlemen on the Republican side think that there was no common feeling of humanity in the South? If that were even so the mere question of interest would forbid Southern men from taking their shot guns and shooting colored men down. It was a slander on both races. If they were left alone, as in Alabama and Georgia, the relations of the two races would adjust themselves soon upon a just foundation. Any party which attempted to use one race for the oppression of the other was guilty of an infamy fouler and more stigmatic than any committed in any Southern community. [Applause.]

Randall, from the conference on the legislative appropriation bill, reported that the committee had come to no conclusion, and explained the differences. The determination of the Senate was fixed and unalterable. The responsibility was [illegible] the Senate, and the Senate was willing to assume it.

Morrison, of conference committee, said the House conferees had presented their views to the extremity of right and duty. He knew of no way to compel the Senate to concur in the opinion of the House, and one result of the agreement would be the discharge of [illegible] employees and an annual saving of a million and a half dollars below the amount [illegible] by the Senate, and that at least was something. The third member of conference [illegible] made some explanatory remarks.

Lord offered a resolution, which was agreed to, that the House conferees recede from their position regarding the salary of the President and Congressmen, and the same conference committee was reappointed.

Counsel was authorized to assist the Speaker and officers of the House in the Hallett Kilbourn suit.

Bland wished to know when he would have an opportunity of making the necessary parliamentary motion that will put a stop to the bloody shirt politics [illegible] in a debate which the country had no interest in whatever. He was called to order by the Speaker, and the House adjourned.

Senate

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10

The amendment of the House of Representatives to the resolution of the Senate to print [illegible] copies of the majority and minority report of the special committee which recently investigated the Mississippi affairs was agreed to and resolution passed.

Allison called up the conference report on the river and harbor appropriation bill, and in answer to a question of Edmunds said the bill was agreed upon by the committee and appropriated exactly $5,000,000.

The finance committee informally agreed that the House bill repealing the date of the resumption act shall sleep in their committee until next winter.

The committee on conference on Indian appropriations agreed to a report [illegible]

[illegible]

Boutwell presented a long tabular message from the Treasury Department showing how the discrepancy of $112,000 was explainable. He also presented a table of the losses on each thousand dollars collected and expended, as arranged by the administration since the formation of the government, showing that the loss on each thousand dollars received during the administration of Grant was 80 cents on each thousand dollars expended [illegible] cents. He argued that this showed the Republican party had kept its promises of 1868 to put down fraud and reform the public service.

[illegible] the discussion, Windom called up the House bill to provide temporarily for the expenditures of government; passed.

The Senate went into executive session and soon adjourned.

House.

Lord offered a resolution reciting that the right of suffrage prescribed by the constitution of several states is subject to the fifteenth amendment, and that the exercise of said rights should be faithfully maintained and observed by the United States, and that it is asserted that the exercise of said right is in some States, notwithstanding efforts of good citizens, is resisted and controlled by fraud, intimidation and violence, so that the object of the fifteenth amendment is defeated, and that all citizens without distinction of race or color are entitled to the right conferred by said amendment, and declaring that all attempts by force, fraud, terror, intimidation or otherwise to prevent a free exercise of suffrage should be met with certain, condign and effectual punishment; that in any case which has heretofore occurred or may hereafter occur in which violence or murder has been or shall be committed by one class or race on another, prompt punishment of the criminal or criminals is imperatively demanded, whether the same be punished by fine, imprisonment or [illegible] by both.

The Republicans then demanded a call of the House and were strong enough to carry their point. During the call a large number of Democrats gathered about Lord's desk, among the number Cox, Reagan, Randall, Morrison, Clymer, [illegible] and [illegible]. [illegible] members present. [illegible] Finally the resolution passed, yeas 154, nays [illegible] Missouri and Reagan of Texas. [illegible] moved to reconsider the resolution [illegible] The vote stood 29 yeas, 13 nays. [illegible]

The vote on the preamble resulted [illegible] yeas, 34 nays.

[illegible] from the navy committee presented the majority report with resolutions. [illegible] overruled the point of order made by Hale that this was not a privileged report under the rule recently adopted, and also overruled the point by Wilson that the motion was to reconsider the vote by which a message of the President was referred to the committee on appropriations.

The naval investigation committee's report made by Beebe, Shealey and Mills [illegible] in which the construction bureau of the Navy Department is unworthy and incompetent [illegible] that position and should be removed [illegible] the negligence of Secretary Robeson, and by his order to pay [illegible] Wheelwright & Co the amount received by them January 13th the government was defrauded [illegible] These resolutions [illegible] The minority report by Baker [illegible] there is no evidence of collusion between officers of the government with the contractors [illegible]

[BY TELEGRAPH.]

Matters in the Indian Country.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 10—Gen Forsythe, of Gen Sheridan's staff, passed through the city early yesterday, having left Terry's camp at the mouth of the Rosebud a week ago last Tuesday. In conversation with army officers while here Gen Forsythe corrected several erroneous statements recently telegraphed from Bismarck and forwarded from this point. It was stated that Gen Terry had fallen back 80 miles, which is merely nonsense and gives a false impression to the public. There was no falling back at all. The evening before Gen Forsythe left Gen Terry a scout from Gen Crook's command had reached Terry. Crook was then somewhere near the headwaters of Rosebud river or between that and Tongue river. Now at this time General Terry was at the mouth of the Big Horn, and in order to make communication between him and Gen Crook easier we dropped down the river to the mouth of the Rosebud between him and Gen Crook easier. We dropped down to the mouth of Rosebud, between which point and Crook's command the distance was no greater than from the mouth of the Big Horn, while the country to be traversed was infinitely more favorable for the march of troops, besides the Sioux alluded to furnished news that Indian trails had been found leading toward the east between Gen Crook and the Yellowstone. The junction between Generals Terry and Crook at a point farther east than Big Horn was likely to prevent the escape of Indians to the east, west and north of the present scene of operations. Another mis-statement found is to the effect that the troops under Terry are disheartened at the prospect before them. Col Smith, who accompanied Forsythe, contradicts this baseless story. On the contrary Gen Terry and his men are in the best possible spirits, and are only too anxious to meet the horde of savages in a fair square fight. No fears are entertained as to the result. As far as could be learned the Indians were supposed to be massed somewhere between Rosebud river and Big Horn. The impression still prevailed that one of two alternatives were left them, either to retire southward or to Big Horn mountains in front or in close proximity to Gen Crook's command. It is not believed they would show fight or allow Crook or Terry to get a chance at them in a body.

Sharp Indian Fight.

CHICAGO, Aug 10—The Times Fort Sully dispatch says Indians from the hostile camp have arrived with reports that Terry's command had encountered the hostiles, and the latter had been flanked by Gen Gibbon and badly beaten. The Indians acknowledge 100 wounded, and Sitting Bull having been shot through both thighs. They are quiet on the subject of the number killed. An Indian can travel by a direct route from Sitting Bull to the agency sooner by several days than a courier could reach Bismarck from Terry. The report is generally believed here.

Meeting of the International Cotton Board.

LONDON, Aug 10—Eight American, three Dutch, one London and six Liverpool representatives of the cotton trade met in convention here yesterday. Samuel Simpson of New Orleans presided. He stated the object of the meeting as declared in the resolution of the American national cotton exchange. W. F. [illegible] of Liverpool endorsed the objects of the meeting. A resolution was offered by Reynolds of Virginia that it was the opinion of this conference that the present system of conducting arbitrations on the quality of cotton in Liverpool is unsatisfactory, and that the cotton brokers' association had been requested to appoint a committee to consider some more efficient means of assessing the allowances to be made on cotton bought and sold to arrive. The resolution passed. [illegible] of Liverpool moved that in the opinion of this conference arbitrations upon quality of cotton should be based upon grade, and that the value should be fixed according to the official quotations of each adopted. Nicholson of Liverpool moved that in the opinion of this conference Liverpool drawn samples of American cotton are on average more in appearance, and consequently in class by one sixteenth to one eighth pence per pound, than those drawn in America, [illegible] cotton is compressed, and that a severer pressure will further deteriorate the class; unanimously adopted. Other resolutions were adopted unanimously to the effect that the system of sampling cotton in America should be the same as in Liverpool.

[illegible] the woods near Jacksonville [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] is to be sixteen miles in length. He expects to have it completed for next season's work.

A Mr. Williams and Miss S. Cole, living near Jump-off Joe, Jackson county, eloped some weeks ago and have not been heard of since.

The stage broke down three times on one trip between Roseburg and Jacksonville, last week, and arrived at the latter place six hours behind time.

Parties are making preparations for putting on a stage line between Crescent City and Waldo to make connection with the Jacksonville stage line.

The Salem Flouring Mills have received several hundred bushels of wheat of the new crop. The first load was received one week ago last Wednesday.

Last Sunday, says the Mercury, while out in the country near Turner's Station we noticed several reapers at work cutting grain. Times are rushing now with the farmers.

J. S. Hanna is at Galice creek for the purpose of surveying a mining ditch which is to be constructed by the English company. The proposed ditch will give them sufficient water to work their claims throughout the entire year.

The owners of the quartz ledge on Hennox's Fork of the Santiam, have incorporated their company and expect to begin active work in opening up their lead. At a meeting of the owners, held in Salem Tuesday, the necessary papers were made out and deposited with the Secretary of State, incorporating the "Capital Gold and Silver Mining Company," with a capital stock of $1,000,000, the price or par value of each share being fixed at $1.

THE TERRITORIES.

It is estimated by good authority that the wheat crops raised under the Greeley canals this year will amount to 215,000 bushels.

We learn that at Burnt Point fishery, in Pierce county, W. T., last week, 100 gallons of oil were obtained from a four days' catch.

The Cheyenne Sun man is in trouble. He says "a Centennial round trip ticket is over a yard long. We fear it will be longer yet before we get one."

A few days ago, near Greeley, four head of cattle were killed by lightning. They all lay within a few feet of each other with no external marks of injury on them.

A man named Drury, a logger in Turner's camp in the suburbs of Olympia, had one of the tendons of his left leg severed, by a glancing blow from an ax Tuesday. The wound was not dangerous, but it bled freely.

The Georgetown Miner is another non-political newspaper, but it is not without feeling on the Indian question. It wants to know what Tilden thinks of Indians, and would probably support him on a Sioux extermination platform.

Capt. Stump has been up at Lewiston asking subscriptions to aid him in building a light draught steamboat to run to Lewiston the year round. He proposes to have the boat running in ninety days if a certain sum is subscribed in the different towns along the route. He asked for two thousand dollars from Lewiston, which amount was quickly raised. He does not ask the money as a gift, but will pay back in freight.

By call of the county central committee, the Republican convention of King county will meet in Seattle on the 29th inst. The primaries are to be held in the several precincts on Friday, the 18th. Each precinct is entitled to one delegate to the convention for every ton or fraction of ten votes given for the Republican candidate for Delegate to Congress at the last general election. Seventy-three delegates in all will comprise the convention.

DO CHINESE LABORERS ASSERT THEIR OWN RIGHTS?

Thoughtful persons ask what effect our freedom has upon the Chinese? It has long been seen that people from other countries imbibe American ideas upon the rights of conscience, as against any domination of a priesthood or ecclesiasticism, and the rights of person as against absolutism in any of its forms of monarchy, oligarchy or imperialism. Immigrants who return our visits are so changed that they no longer can endure even the milder types of governmental control of religion or citizenship. A New York merchant overheard a man chiding a contractor for neglect of certain fast or festal days. The reply was, "We are not in the ould country now." Men on our soil are stirred by new purposes to make homes for themselves and their families. The waters, the prairies, and the mountains are free, inviting every man to choose his work and his abode. Competitions rouse his energies. New social relations impose new duties with new privi[illegible]. Being taxed to support municipal and State governments, he demands the [illegible] and the [illegible], and thus learns to think and to act in the rights and obligations of his new conditions. For[illegible] he left most of these questions to the rulers in church and state. [illegible] with liberty and held by [illegible] to study every question. It is interesting to observe how [illegible] this education is acquired in even the common walks of life. What sharp [illegible] in the shops, on the [illegible] and at the markets! What quick [illegible] of the old idols of the country [illegible] in our business circles! [illegible] shows the imported notions [illegible] are subjected! In their [illegible] come, not anarchy. [illegible] for the New, but [illegible] the strength of [illegible] oppressions perish [illegible] of civil war, but out [illegible] a government of peace [illegible] will [illegible] the Chinese laborers [illegible] and show any of its [illegible] of them who [illegible] schools, called [illegible] Pacific Mail Steamship [illegible] to buy tickets for [illegible] They were asked if [illegible] or permits from any Companies? "No," was [illegible] nothing to do with [illegible] money to pay our fare." [illegible] to you without their [illegible] shall not ask it. What [illegible] "We sent [illegible] and waited six [illegible] to sell us [illegible] went home to China." [illegible] They knew and [illegible] right to go and [illegible] in the fifth article of [illegible] of the contractor and [illegible] is the effort to bind [illegible] They make their [illegible] go their own way, sub[illegible] the law. [illegible] have ruled [illegible] have been frequent. [illegible] ago, if not now, had [illegible] soldiers to keep the [illegible]. The study of [illegible] they are not ani[illegible] know something of [illegible] and defend [illegible] and men who abuse [illegible] that blows and insults [illegible] those who give them. [illegible] quickly learn who is honest [illegible] and who is a cruel cheat, [illegible] with the two classes as they [illegible]

[illegible] manufactory began [illegible] contractor offered to furnish [illegible] per month. The bargain [illegible] figures. As a work[illegible] he called for more [illegible] He stopped work. [illegible] he went to his loom [illegible] another more skilled, refused to [illegible] than $35, which was paid [illegible] At length he struck for $40. As he [illegible] he was paid $40. [illegible] bargains were made with the [illegible] workmen and the money paid [illegible] and not to the contractor as at [illegible] is becoming of little [illegible] Company, and their interests [illegible] more white laborers and more individual competition. Matched men with [illegible] a few Chinamen will prove equal to a few white [illegible] but the majority will [illegible] inferior. The law of demand and supply will operate and govern finally.

This claim for higher and higher wages is also [illegible] among domestics, until only a few retain their places, and larger numbers are thrown out of employment. The time is near for white domestics, who are willing to do it, to take this work. It grows out of the growth of Chinese independence in the labor market. They demand higher and higher pay, and become more and more exacting, and less and less valuable help. This country has been a rich bonanza to them, paying five hundred per cent. for their labor above the home rates. Its effect has been to increase their greed of gain and their self-assertion at the same moment. They will gradually and surely get free from the domination of their contractors. Being clannish they may work awhile longer in gangs, but at length they will drop apart and stand or fall as individuals. Contractors will control new gangs on great public works for a time, but the contagion of example and precept will loosen their bonds and set them free. Meanwhile manufacturers and railroad builders and other American contractors will probably not continue their bargains to a few head men, but will engage well known Chinese workmen individually.

As this process goes on the labor market will be supplied in the normal way; possibly with fewer strikes because of the presence or nearness of Chinamen. Its limited requirements will be speedily met. The glut and loss will reduce the profit of shipment in gangs, and we shall have fewer cargoes of coolies put wholesale upon the docks and less and less cause of alarm. The sign of this change appears in the reshipment a few days since of 400 indigent Chinese from San Francisco. Importers stop when their cargoes are not sold, at a profit. It is impossible for one man to control masses of men in our country and use their labor for his profit for a long time. The Chinese will prove no exception to this rule. They will claim what belongs to them and compel those who imported them to deal fairly. When they do this, the labor monopoly will weaken and break.

These are the commercial processes of the problem, as they naturally work its solution. No doubt the law of the treaty —Article V.—ought to be enforced to hasten their personal liberty. One decision of the courts against importing ignorant, beguiled coolies, would tend to absolve all, who are unjustly held. They see what is right as quickly as we do. In the given cases named above they claim it, and alarm the man, who sells their labor, with the fear of losing it. A little kind help from our people will shorten their bondage.

It may be objected that the contractor has the rights of his investment in the cost of the importation, which must be protected. But if he attempts the monopoly of our labor market, by massing and controlling gangs of men at every point and in every kind of employment, to enrich himself, regardless of the welfare of our people, let his monopoly be broken by every legitimate means. The commonwealth is more than the monopolist. Let his coolies take flight on the road to liberty, and let all good men help them. Make his investment in coolies a losing business. Destroy his argument for their coming. If they come at all let it be as independent men, paying their own expenses, making their own bargains and choosing their own abodes.

It is obvious that their education in the mission schools is the most rapid means of their emancipation. Their mental bondage to false teachings gives way to the clearer truths from the word of God. They gradually imbibe the lessons of divine wisdom and authority in place of the maxims of Confucius and of Budh. Those who accept the Redeemer become free indeed. Progress, strength, light and assured hope are theirs, in place of their hideous and gloomy superstitions. Such are the fruits of these schools. When the soul is set at liberty, and nourished with truth, man is on the royal road of safety and happiness for himself and for all others so far as his life affects theirs. Wise men see and admit the force of this mental and moral culture in its control of our civil and social life. By purity of [illegible] it applies to them, and to all races styled inferior. Instead of meeting them with alarm at their numbers, or fear of their contact, it is nobler to give them full possession of all their inalienable personal rights, and to invest them with that Christianity, which is the gift of God to save all mankind.

Our principles of freedom and humanity have saved our nation thus far, and we can trust them instead of any policy of exclusiveness for the unknown future.

NEW PUBLICATIONS.

THE PEOPLE'S HISTORY OF AMERICA, from the Earliest Discoveries to the Present Day. Published by H. S. Allen, New York.

This is a comprehensive history of the two American Continents from the time of their discovery until the present time. It includes in one large, handsomely illustrated and well printed volume of seven hundred and twenty pages, Belknap's Biographies of the Early Discoveries, Dr. Robertson's excellent History of South America, Graham's History of North America, and Ramsey's History of the United States, together with Hubbard's History of the Indian Wars in New England, and a well written account of the more recent events in our history, including the late civil war and causes which led to it. Without having had time to give to this work the careful attention it deserves, we would say that it seems, from its plan and from the manner in which that plan has been carried out, to be a valuable work, comprising in an attractive and handy form much information which would be difficult, if not impossible to find collected, in any other work. It seems calculated to meet a long-felt demand for a cheap, accurate and comprehensive history of the two American Continents.

The yacht race of the New York Yacht Club, which we mentioned as being in progress a day or two ago, has resulted in a brilliant victory for the New York yacht and an ignominious defeat for the Countess of Dufferin. This indicates that the challenge cup will not be carried away by the Countess of Dufferin. It is, however, due to that yacht to state that her sails fitted very badly and that she is having another set made, when, probably her speed will be increased.

Mr. Sanford, the owner of Preakness, has challenged the owner of one of the English cracks to run a two mile race with heavy weights, but the challenge was not accepted. The horse Mr. Sanford desired to match Preakness against was, we believe, Hampton, the winner of the Goodwood stakes.

A CARD.

IN THE ISSUE OF YESTERDAY MORNING'S paper I saw an account of my sister's rescue from infamy. But I have little thanks to offer the authorities for her rescue, for the detailed officer, Capt. Collins, visited her at the house of Miss Gallagher, telling her that she was wanted at her home in San Francisco, and that if she did not want to go he would not bother her. The way the police force allow this infamous procuress, Jennie Savage, to continue her course of ruining young children is a shame and disgrace to the people of Portland, and had it not been for the straightened circumstances in which I am placed, I would prosecute her to the full extent of the law. I think she ought to be in the same place with her agent, John Lawless. It will not be long until she will commence to ruin the rising generation of Portland as well as San Francisco, and the quicker she is attended to the better for the peace of the families in the vicinity.

All students in the collegiate department are charged a fee of $[illegible] a term payable in advance for incidental expenses. The pay students in the collegiate department are charged a tuition fee of $20 a term payable in advance. Students in the preparatory department are charged $15 a term payable in advance. Applicants for admission to the collegiate department must undergo an examination in the studies in which teachers in the common schools are now required to be examined and also the Latin and Greek grammar and reader and the first four books of Caesar but for the present the examination in the languages will not be required. The course of study in the collegiate department covers four years and includes the ordinary collegiate studies, scientific course and normal course. Studies in the preparatory department will include all the branches necessary to qualify a student for admission into the collegiate department. It is expected that the preparatory department will receive 75 or 100 pupils during the coming year and as it is not probable that the collegiate department will be full during that time it is understood that the faculty will assist in the instruction of classes in the preparatory department. A by law makes all students liable for all injury to the building, furniture or other property belonging to the university which liability may be enforced by the faculty by suspension or expulsion. The faculty and teachers are to hold their positions during good behavior. The board expects to ask the next Legislature to levy a State tax of [illegible] mill for the next two years for the purpose of completing the building, providing it with furniture and apparatus and putting the grounds in order. We venture to suggest that no tax of the same amount will be paid more cheerfully by the people of this State.

SHOALWATER BAY EXCURSION.

SIXTH ANNUAL REGATTA OF THE SHOALWATER BAY YACHT CLUB.

[illegible] regatta of the Shoalwater Bay Yacht Club [illegible] many [illegible] and parties from Portland, Astoria and elsewhere [illegible] to Oysterville [illegible] to witness the exciting [illegible]. A notable [illegible] steamship Ajax was prepared for an excursion trip to Shoalwater Bay. The [illegible] the regatta [illegible] could [illegible] arrange [illegible]. Shortly after eight o'clock Sunday evening the steamer [illegible] from her [illegible] company [illegible] away down the river. The [illegible] was lined with people to witness the departure and as the steamer cleared they [illegible] Capt Squires [illegible] mate [illegible] and purser [illegible] who manipulated the pasteboard in his usual agreeable manner. The passenger list [illegible] published in Monday's [illegible] aggregated about forty persons including Messrs [illegible] Parrish and Parrot who had been engaged by the Yacht Club to play during the regatta and at the ball. Their services were all donated [illegible] passed up from her weekly excursion trip to the seaside. After this everybody [illegible] on the upper deck for want of accommodations in the saloon. This was not so bad as long as the pleasant weather continued but when a light mist set in it was quite time to take up beds and walk [illegible] comfortable quarters. At [illegible] o'clock the steamer reached the Farmers' dock at Astoria and the announcement having been made that she would lie at the wharf until 8 o'clock the major portion of the passengers walked to different hotels and restaurants in the city there to procure breakfast, although the meal was prepared on the boat. The fact that a murder had been committed the day previous and almost a double tragedy was enough to weaken the appetite of many and astonish the new comers in general. The usual cocktail was dispensed with, owing to the fact that an election was to take place, saloons being closed up and the thirsty individual had to postpone that privilege until the return to the steamer where that consoling draught could be procured. Some eight or nine persons were added to the passenger list at Astoria and shortly after 8 o'clock the steamer was headed for the dreaded Columbia river bar. Nearly all the passengers took positions on deck in order to get a whiff of sea air and at the same time take in the surrounding country. Most of them wherever doomed to retire. As the steamer began pitching and rolling it was a noticeable fact that the number on deck gradually grew less. One young man a student at law who had been desirous of making up a game of whist changed his mind rather suddenly and another of the party concluded that he didn't care much to play just then. One lady caught the infection and during the entire sea voyage made a desperate effort to pay respect to Neptune. The effort was a dead failure and the poor woman suffered in consequence far more than those who actually contributed to the inhabitants of the briny deep. Music for the time was out of the question, the members of the band being in ordinary. Capt Gardner who came along to pilot the steamer into Shoalwater Bay walked the deck and bore an expression on his countenance that was truly demoniacal. It was fun to him as well as the other old stagers and a few fortunate passengers. Col H who came to dispose of a few pools on the regatta like the lady already mentioned made a desperate effort to disgorge but to no purpose. A practical joker fastened a stout rope to one of his legs to make sure that the "Colonel," in his efforts to cast up his breakfast should not cast himself overboard. By the time the Shoalwater Bay bar was reached the bunks were filled leaving but few to enjoy the breeze. At 4 o'clock the steamer reached her anchorage at a distance of about four miles out from Oysterville. Anticipating the arrival of the excursionists a number of plungers came out and took on board such as desired to reach the town. From these plungers the occupants were transferred to oyster boats and afterwards wagons conveyed them to shore. A few waded and others were carried to terra firma on the backs of strong men. The excursionists were taken in charge by members of the Yacht Club and provided for at the hotel boarding houses and in private families. Many adjourned to Crellin's store the headquarters of the Yacht Club. A few fortunate ones found here a liberal supply of great, large Eastern transplanted oysters. They proved so inviting that with difficulty it was possible to keep certain prominent Portlanders from the baskets. At the hotel were congregated people from Astoria, Unity, Portland and a liberal gathering of Pacific county folks. There was the Granger (?) with his case of jewelry which could be had for a trifle by buying a card and taking chances, you know. The energetic pen man opened his stock in front of the hotel and soon a gaping crowd gathered around. Business didn't prosper and he changed off to the revolving wheel or pool turn table. This proved a telling card and the boys went in it for all that was out. In the end the manager scraped in a goodly portion of the hard earned coin from the individuals who would try their luck no matter what the result. Among the

PORTLANDERS IN TOWN

Who had preceded the excursionists were Prof J W Pratt, Dr Welch, [illegible] Brandt, Jr, Geo H Himes, Arthur Wilson and the crew of the Owl who had walked over from Unity via the beach simply for the exercise that it afforded. They do say that if the Owl had been brought around the result of the race would have been different.

CLAMS

At the dinner table of the Pacific Hotel the Portlanders were thoroughly impressed with the idea that clams would be the proper diet. They cast aside all other eatables and the demand was clams. A colored gentleman who passed under the name of White applied to him by some jokist had all he could do to keep the clam eaters supplied with that desirable article. Reports from other sources settled the fact that clams were what they wanted. In the absence of that bivalve oysters were looked upon as the only food to satisfy.

Sanborn, Tom Parrott and Ed Stolte are credited with being the champion clam eaters. It was evident the demand was greater than the supply and ere the departure of the Portlanders there was scarcely a clam to be had.

Every provision was made to render the night comfortable to the visitors. In almost every instance all were well provided for. The representative of the OREGONIAN is duly grateful to Mr Thos Crellin for elegant apartments at the residence of that gentleman and [illegible] by his companions that [illegible] to Mr John Crellin and others the whole party are greatly indebted for various favors.

[illegible]

The following morning [illegible] ready for the pleasures of the day [illegible] individual who had become [illegible] during the night and as a result found quarters in the cabin [illegible] having at least the [illegible] of knowing that he was its first [illegible]

[illegible]

At Crellin's store preparations were made for the [illegible] regatta. The [illegible] duty was to select [illegible] In this direction the [illegible] gentlemen [illegible] Capt [illegible] Portland [illegible]

[illegible]

The Ajax [illegible] the great [illegible] having won the race last year and being under control of what was considered the most [illegible]. The Mary M Soule [illegible] and Lib Smith [illegible] as well as their most sanguine friends anticipated these boats were considered showing a good show to win as in [illegible]

The course lay south from the judges' stake boat moored opposite the town to stake boat thence north to stake boat and return to judges' boat. Total distance about thirty miles.

At noon all who desired to witness the race betook themselves to the boats and were either conveyed to the Gussie Telfair or in [illegible] boats entered for the race [illegible] agreeable [illegible]

Every [illegible] who were desirous of seeing [illegible] and when they meandered to the water front all the boats had departed for the scene of contest. The individuals in question concluded that a game of pedro or whist was the only way they could solace themselves and they retired to a corner in the hotel where they became oblivious of the regatta in the excitement of the games which followed in quick succession.

At 1 o'clock the boats were started and as they passed the judges' boat the numbers and time of each were taken. The Mary M Soule was the first to start but she drew off wonderfully as the race progressed. With the exception of the Soule the other boats kept well together presenting a grand sight as they proceeded southward. In turning the stake boat the Mary [illegible] was dismantled after she turned the first stake boat and was withdrawn and the War Eagle met with a misfortune of nearly like character before reaching the north stake boat leaving the race virtually to nine boats. The breeze was just what the sailing masters wanted and over the course the boats sped, now one leading, then falling behind, alternating frequently in this way thus creating a more exciting contest. From the ninth boat it was clear that the Artemesia had the best of it; the trial for second place lay between the Soule and Lib Smith. From the Telfair a splendid view of the race could be obtained. Bray's band enlivened the occasion with music and all on board seemed thoroughly delighted with the exciting scene before them. Almost within four hours the sixth annual regatta was a [illegible]. The winners were known ere the boats had returned to shore and great excitement prevailed. Below we give the time of each boat.

The first prizes will be observed fell to the Artemesia the others to those following according to the time indicated. In the evening the store of Crellin & Co was crowded by persons to hear the judges' report. This was given as above. Mr Loomis having choice of cups took the one presented by the citizens of Portland as his preference for the first prize. The cup is inscribed "Shoalwater Bay Yacht Club" and reverse side "Portland Cup Centennial." This cup will be placed in the hands of the jeweler for additional inscriptions. The second prize falling to the Soule Capt Soule received it. The cup is inscribed "First Prize 6th Annual Regatta Shoalwater Bay Yacht Club" and is valued at $40. The third prize was $20 coin to the Lib Smith and fourth prize $10 to the Serena. In the midst of the presentations the health of the citizens of Portland was drunk and one to Shoalwater Bay Yacht Club. Mr Sanborn who is always on hand engineered the distribution of the liquids. Thus closed the regatta.

THE BALL

In the evening was given at the court house which proved to be a most enjoyable affair. Among those present were Mrs Judge Griswold, Maria and Sophie Caruthers, Miss Helen Johnson, Mrs Hiram Wing, Mr and Mrs Gus Hansen, Mr and Mrs Thos Crellin, the Misses Stevens, Mr and Mrs Harry K Stevens, Mr and Mrs Harry Finley, John Crellin, Esq, H C Hoberg, J H Whitcomb all of Oysterville, B D Adair, Capt J H D Gray of Astoria, Miss Rachel Mancict, Miss Mary Maher, Ida Ryan, — Raleigh, Therese Brandt, Hattie Foster, Mr C H Woodard, Mr W J Van Schuyver, Mrs Jno Raleigh, Nellie Kearney, Mr and Mrs Edward Holman, Mark King, Isaac Blum, E H Stolte, H D Sanborn and wife, E T Cunningham, J H Brenner, Arthur Wilson and others of Portland and the officers of the Gussie Telfair. The music was charming and Parrish having fully recovered from his late sea sickness called figures with that clearness which is characteristic of him. Supper was served at the Pacific hotel and the affair kept up until almost five o'clock.

PREPARING TO LEAVE.

It was natural to expect that many persons would be left behind in the bustle attending the departure of the steamer. With great difficulty stragglers were picked up but not all as among those who failed to get out to the departing vessel were Mark King, H D Sanborn and wife and Miss Mancict. Five persons being desirous to see everything preferred to return by the overland route—two of whom walked over just after the regatta while the other three took conveyances next morning.

Every one has heard of the celebrated beach drive of 18 miles and it is needless to mention it in this place. It is simply a grand thoroughfare so to speak, the roughest wagon going over it as smoothly as though it was run over carpet.

THE SUNSHINE

About half way up the beach between Oysterville and Unity lies the ill fated schooner Sunshine which was wrecked last winter, only a small portion of the vessel being visible. Twenty seven souls were lost and not one left to tell the story of the disaster. One body and a portion of the cargo recovered.

FLIP OYSTERS

In one of the wagons was a sack of oysters addressed to a lady stopping at Unity. A young gentleman connected with the railroad office finding the sack open partook of all he wanted, opening the same for himself and a lady behind him with as much self possession as if they actually belonged to him. The owner of the oysters will be minus a large portion of the bivalves.

AT UNITY

In three hours and a half the overland party reached Unity where they found mine host Dexter and his estimable wife in waiting. The house is full at present and all are thoroughly pleased with their surroundings. After dinner quite a number of persons took passage on the tug Gen Canby for Astoria. In the evening the sloop Owl with a party for the same place. As the tug passed Sand Is and the excursion steamer.

[illegible]

Having sighted [illegible] the bar [illegible] touched at Astoria about [illegible] arriving at Portland early Thursday morning. Nothing of special moment transpired on the trip from Shoalwater Bay to Portland.

ASTORIA AND ON THE COLUMBIA.

Your correspondent remained over at Astoria and [illegible] a few items.

At present the city enjoys a busy aspect [illegible] the advent of fishermen [illegible] the daily passage of stages [illegible] resorts and the circuit court being in session.

Mrs S N Arrigoni has just completed her large boarding house on the hill overlooking the bay and just back of the O S N Co's new wharf. The lady knows how to run the building, and a more comfortable establishment would be difficult to find in Oregon. The Occident Hotel under the management of Messrs Wright is a fine establishment and is at present doing a land office business. [illegible] Holden received the first Shoalwater Bay oysters on Wednesday. He and Mr H keep a tidy place on the principal street.

Great improvements are in progress in the vicinity of the Farmers' wharf. All the O S N Co's and ocean steamers are landing at the Farmers' wharf until their own adjoining are completed.

The ship City of Sparta with part cargo on board was towed down from Megler's cannery on Thursday. She will complete her cargo of salmon at Astoria.

The river steamers are carrying hundreds of Chinamen to Portland, their services at the fisheries being no longer of any benefit. Quite a number of fishermen are also out of employment.

The fishery of Myers, Jackson & Co at Rainier is the only one that is doing any packing, the fish catch being somewhat improved at this point.

The Bonita took the place of the Dixie Thompson on Thursday on the Astoria route, the latter boat having broken some machinery on her last trip up.

Two ladies of East Portland were out last week soliciting subscriptions for the completion of the Catholic Church and met with fair success. We understand that it is necessary to raise about $600 before the edifice will be completed and we hope our citizens will help the Catholics of East Portland who have high [illegible] helped us in every work of charity undertaken in this city.

NOTICE.

The undersigned in taking leave of Portland returns his sincere thanks for the liberal patronage that has been bestowed and would bespeak for his successors a continuance of the same.

Both DRS BARBER & NICKLIN are gentlemen in every way competent and worthy of any confidence that may be placed in them and as such I can conscientiously recommend them to my former friends and patrons.

HAGAN'S MAGNOLIA BALM preserves and restores the complexion, removes freckles tan and sallowness, makes the skin soft white and delicate. Its application cannot be detected.

LYON'S KATHAIRON makes beautiful glossy luxuriant hair, prevents its falling out or turning gray. It has stood the test of 40 years. Is charmingly perfumed, and has no rival.

All the year round Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders should be given to horses that are kept up. To horses and cattle that graze in summer they should only be given in winter and spring.

Officers and soldiers who served in the army, physicians, surgeons and eminent men and women everywhere join in recommending Johnson's Anodyne Liniment to be the best internal and external family medicine ever invented. That's our experience.

BOUNTIFUL NATURE AFFORDS NO FINER SPECIFIC for skin disease than Sulphur, a fact that is clearly proven by the action upon the cuticle afflicted with eruptions or ulcerous sores of that supreme purifier GLENN'S SULPHUR SOAP.

IT IS BUT WRETCHED POLICY to allow yourself to drift into an incurable disease by neglecting the earliest and most tractable symptoms. By contentedly waiting for a Cold to get well of itself many a one has so damaged the structure of his lungs as to put himself beyond the reach of medicines before being conscious of danger. How much safer on the first indications of a Cold, to resort to Dr Jayne's Expectorant, an efficacious remedy for Coughs, Asthma and all Bronchial Affections, and sure to exert a beneficial influence on the organs of the Chest.

There is but little complaint of any scarcity in supply of capital for all the demand at present ruling. The check in the requirements coming from the fisheries is nearly offset by the increased call for the purpose of moving the grain crop. The advances on wool also help in some measure to swell the aggregate draft upon the monetary resources of the country. The capital in reach however, is ample to answer the legitimate purposes of these several branches of trade, and there is no hardening tendency in rates as yet. But, should the foreign markets take such a turn, or any other circumstance arise, as to induce an active trade and large movement of the grain crop, there might be some temporary stringency before the winter sets in. There is now however, nothing to indicate that such events as would bring about such closeness will occur, but the outlook is rather against an active market or large movement early in the season. Prices are too low, and farmers generally are reported to be well prepared to hold their grain for an advance if they shall be persuaded it will take place later. A good many, however, will be under the necessity of disposing of a portion of their crop in order to meet the expense of hired help in harvesting and threshing. This will enable the [illegible] under engagement to secure cargoes [illegible] duly and give early circulation to a portion of the funds now reserved for this branch of trade. [illegible] improvements are going ahead quite extensively and they also produce some demand for [illegible] aid in the way of loans on real estate, etc. The erection of numerous large buildings in this city the present season has in a great measure helped to sustain the appearance of life and activity which we witness on every hand by adding very considerable amounts to the money in general circulation, for the purchase of material and the employment of mechanics and laborers. The aggregate of capital thus set afloat constitutes a very important part of that which supports the retail and [illegible] to make up the jobbing trade of the city. The silver question is essentially unchanged in any of its features; the late advance from 48@49 to 51 in the London market having failed so far to [illegible] a corresponding effect upon the metal on this [illegible]. The quotations which we give above are the [illegible] at which the coins are generally passing in this community, where tender is made with [illegible] in [illegible] of more than $5, with halves, or any [illegible] in trade dollars. Very considerable sums in silver can be used in the grain trade this fall, which will at least partially relieve the market on this coast.

Domestic Produce.

The week [illegible] under review at this time, though not developing any material change in [illegible], has nevertheless, been one of considerable activity in the line of domestic produce. The new wheat crop has not come forward in any important quantities and prices are not at all [illegible]. By the latter part of next week, we may expect that the receipts will be larger, and we may begin to form some idea as to the course of the market, but at present it is the merest guess work. Oats of the [illegible] have begun to arrive in small parcels, and are freely taken at current rates. A [illegible] shipment is made to San Francisco by steamer this week,—the first for some time. Flour is in full supply at quotations, and shipments are increasing in volume, the California, for Sitka, taking over 1,000 barrels, and the Ajax, for San Francisco, about 250 bbls. In dairy products and provisions, there is a fair trade with light receipts and a few shipments to California and northern ports. Potatoes of the new crop are plentiful and prices lower, farmers selling them from wagons for [illegible] cents per bushel, without sacks. In wool, trade shows up well for the week and the arrivals exceed those of any former week of the season. Prices, however steady, do not advance, and we are informed that a very large part of the clip will be stored for reduced freights and a better market. The slight advance in quotations of woolen goods at the East is an indication that the latter may occur at least before the next year's clip is ready to be put upon the market. Hides and peltry command good prices for the season and find ready sale.

230 ACRES DUE SOUTH AND ADJOINING the Railroad Depot at Salem, all under cultivation, and suitable for grain or vegetables.

946 Acres, four miles southeast of Salem, on the railroad, with Mill creek running through it. This is the choicest farming land in Marion county, with fine springs, consisting in part of the old Rector donation claim, on which I raised the past year fifty bushels of wheat and three tons of timothy per acre. The first crop of oats ever raised on part of this land measured ninety-four bushels per acre, grain weighed and ground chained by Mr. Alfred Stanton, of Salem.

2,700 Acres of prairie and light brush land, with timber for farming purposes, bounded by the Willamette River for four miles, beautiful lake on the east, boat landings all along the river, commencing four miles north of Salem—all choice grain land—the largest and most suitable body of land to be found in the Willamette Valley to be purchased by a colony. To be sold from $15 to $25 per acre. This land will all be immediately resurveyed, and can be sold in larger or smaller parcels, to suit purchasers. I can subdivide to the best possible advantage, and I can offer any person or persons, or colony of persons, desiring to purchase homes in the best part of the Willamette Valley, near the city of Salem and within reach of the best social advantages, as well as most favorably located with respect to markets, greater advantages, on more favorable terms, than they can ever expect to realize again.

"Look here! workingmen, $11,000,000 spent on fattening officers and not half a million on the poor workingmen." "Look, and consider: one dollar and sixty cents a day to a laborer; one hundred dollars an hour for an alderman." "We demand immediate employment for the unemployed of this city." "We look to Congress for relief in passing the Bland silver bill and the homestead law."

The answer of defendant, Beecher, denies specifically that Moulton was ready or anxious to stand his trial for libel. Beecher denies he ever requested the district attorney of Kings county to take any [illegible] concerning the nolle prosequi. He concludes by averring that his testimony concerning Moulton, given before the grand jury, was true.

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 11.—Senator Morton delivered his opening campaign speech here to-night to an immense audience. He compared the merits of the two great parties in America to show what the members of the Republican party have been and are, and submitted tables showing how great has been the reductions in defalcations during the Republican administration. He made a lengthy review of the lives of Tilden and Hendricks for the purpose of showing their unfitness for the position to which they are nominated. He denounced in the most scathing language the Southern murderers, who participated in the Hamburg and other horrors, and concluded with a brief and eloquent tribute to Hayes and Wheeler.

NEW YORK, Aug. 11.—The Times' Washington special on the post route bill, says the House want the post route part of the bill exceedingly. They also want the franking privilege. THE SIOUX CAMPAIGN.

News from Terry.

CHICAGO, Aug. 11.—A St. Paul dispatch from Bismarck transmits the following from Terry's camp, mouth of the Rosebud, August 6th: Col. Otis, with six companies of the 22d Infantry, arrived on the 2d, and Gen. Miles, with six companies of the 5th, reached camp on the next day. Besides the new arrivals, the entire command is being refitted and assembled on the south bank of the Yellowstone. The march will commence on the 7th. Gen. Terry, in an order dated July 26th, expresses his thanks to Privates James, Bell, Evans and Benj Stewart, of Co. E, 7th Infantry, for their bravery in taking dispatches to Gen. Crook and returning. These, among others, volunteered to go through the hostile country when Indian scouts refused.

Troops Ordered to Cheyenne.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—Four companies 4th Artillery at San Francisco have been ordered to Cheyenne.

The President Asks for More Troops.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The President to day sent a message to Congress urging, in view of any possible contingency during the vacation, that provision be made for more troops in the Indian country, and suggested that an increase of the present cavalry force of 2,500 would be deemed advisable, and that he be authorized to call out five regiments of volunteers, each one a thousand strong, for a period not exceeding six months.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 11.—The President in his message concerning the Indian campaign, argues at length the necessity of providing for the possible demand during the vacation for more troops in the Indian country. It would seem more economical and better, he says, to authorize an increase of the present cavalry force by 2,500 privates, but then this is not desirable. The President should be authorized to call out four regiments, each 1,000 strong, of volunteers, for six months. He would not order out volunteers unless the reports from the scene of action made it absolutely necessary, and then only the smallest possible number.

Sheridan's Views.

The following is General Sheridan's letter to Gen. Sherman: I have not yet been able to reinforce the garrisons at Red Cloud, at Spotted Tail or at Standing Rock so as to be strong enough to keep the Indians, or to arrest and disarm those coming in. I beg of you to proceed to the committee of the House and urge on it the necessity of increasing the cavalry regiments to 100 men for each company; to extend Gen. Crook's total strength to 1,774; Terry's to 1,8[illegible] and I [illegible] the force to them. I have stripped every post from the line of Manitoba to Texas. We want more mounted men. We have not overstepped the law in relation to enlisting Indian scouts. In fact we have not as many as the law allows us. The whole number in this division is only 111 Indians with Crook not counted or even paid. They are not worth paying. They are with him only to gratify their desire for a fight and their lust for revenge on the Sioux.

Signed P. H. SHERIDAN,
Lieutenant General

The letter of General Sherman to the Secretary of War endorses the recommendation of General Sheridan, and the letter of the secretary of War recommends the same to the President.

Sioux Indians on the War Path.

OTTAWA, Aug. 11.—A letter from the Northwest mounted police force dated Bismarck, July 19th, says: Our party came across four hundred Sioux on the war path one hundred miles from the scene of Custer's massacre. We anticipate trouble with the Indians before we reach our destination.
